Years bring wisdom. A fair young thing tried to charge her first poll tax receipt when she reached the tax collector's desk today after standing in line for two hours, and found she lacked two bits of having the full amount.

A line of type or two often means much to the meaning of a news item. For instance: General Manager Roy Stump of the chamber of commerce was yesterday quoted as saying that outsiders do not pay much attention to publicity matter when sent out by the chamber of commerce. What Mr. Stump really said was that persons who have a direct touch with outsiders (friends and business connections) can help the town by mailing publicity matter direct to them.

River and Harbor Committee Coming in April

IMPROVEMENT FORECAST

Channel Deepening Program May Start Soon

The board of federal army engineers, headed by Gen. Lausling H. Beach, together with members of the river and harbors committee, will make an inspection trip to Port Arthur and other Gulf coast points next April, it was understood from an authentic source today.

It is expected that a part of the program for deepening the canal to 30 feet will be under way at this time.

Extensive Inspection Trip

The understanding is that members of the river and harbors committee will make quite an extensive trip along the coast and spend some time inspecting the various improvement work that has already been voted.

The officials probably will spend two or three days in Port Arthur, viewing the waterway and going over the technical phases of its development with Gen. Beach and the other experts who will make up the army engineers' party.

AUTO OWNER TO GET MORE TIME

No Arrests Until Office Can Catch Up, Indication

Although there has been no official announcement, it is believed that the city court will be taking up the proper authorities in bringing auto drivers to account for not having their 1922 licenses.

It is believed that no arrests in this connection will be made by either county or city officers until each automobile owner has had ample time in which to obtain the highway credentials.

Owners Here Handicapped

Port Arthur auto owners, it is pointed out, have been somewhat handicapped in making payment for licenses due to the fact that no tax collecting offices had been opened here until recently, and because of this, it is thought each driver will be given due time to secure licenses.

Although Chief of Police Word was out of the city today, it is indicated that it will not be the disposition of city officers to bring undue hardships upon people who have had no opportunity to secure licenses.

2,500 Licenses Unpaid

However, it is also pointed out that inasmuch as the office of county tax representative has been opened here for the period of one month, that these approximately 2,000 auto licenses should be secured at once.

It was announced this morning that have been paid here already, while there are around 2,500 which remain unpaid.

20 Canines Given Anti-rabies Shot in Arm by Baker

During the past few days, 20 dogs in Port Arthur have been given vaccinations protecting them from hydrophobia, Dr. O. I. Baker, city sanitary officer, said today. The vaccinations produce absolute immunity from rabies for a period of one year, the sanitary officer said.

At the present time the city has not taken any steps to make the vaccinations of dogs compulsory. It is reported, but numbers of dog owners have voluntarily applied for the anti-toxin treatment for their canines, Dr. Baker declared.

COURT BILL IS BEFORE HOUSE

Merriman and Quinn Introduce Measure

Port Arthur's corporation court bill was introduced in the Texas House of Representatives today by J. O. Merriman and B. E. Quinn, of Jefferson county.

Final passage of the bill will mean the establishment of a corporation court in this city with the same powers as the county court at law, in Beaumont.

Included in this jurisdiction are provisions that appeals go direct from Port Arthur to the court of criminal appeals, and jail sentences, as well as fines, can be assessed.

Two previous attempts to create such a court by passage of court bills through the legislature have failed.

About two years ago the legislature created a court in Port Arthur known as the Jefferson county court at law, number 2. The court of criminal appeals.

Inland Manufacturers Will Concentrate Tonnage Here

P. O. BUSINESS HERE INCREASES

Representatives Visit Port Arthur as Preliminary to Re-route Plans, Says Transmarine Corporation Official

Within the next six months five or six eastern and northern companies will be using Port Arthur as a port of concentration, resulting in a yearly increase of thousands of tons of cargo moving through Port Arthur yearly.

This is the prediction made by J. I. Boyd, manager of the Port Arthur terminals of the Transmarine Steamship corporation. Boyd declares the increased tonnage moving through Port Arthur because of the use of this port as a concentration point will be the result of the establishment of the direct Port Arthur-New York steamship service of the Transmarine corporation.

Representative Here

Representatives of companies, for turning on concentrating their products in Port Arthur have visited this city within the past few weeks, Boyd declared. In every instance where a personal investigation of the shipping facilities here have been made, the investigators have declared themselves highly pleased with the situation, he said.

INDUSTRIAL WAR MAY BE RESULT GERMANS CLAIM

Occupation of Ruhr Basin Near Completion

BELGIANS AID FRENCH

Germany Recalls Ambassador to Paris

By United Press.

PARIS, Jan. 11.—France occupied the heart of the Ruhr today. Essen was surrounded by an army of 35,000 men. Engineers started work outlining penalties in coal which Germany must pay for reparations defaults. The German government recalled its ambassador to Paris and in a note to the powers warned that widespread troubles may be provoked throughout Europe by France's act.

A French army of cavalry, artillery, infantry and air forces spread a steel net around Essen, industrial heart of the Ruhr valley, second richest coal producing spot in the world. Belgians, in lesser numbers, moved in with the French, occupying ground northwards of the city. All the troops are white.

The German protest, contained in a note sent to France, Italy and Belgium, was a solemn warning that industrial revolution might result from seizure of the Ruhr. Withdrawal of the German ambassador did not constitute a breach of relations, however, it was announced, and the French ambassador will remain at Berlin.

GERMAN CROWDS IN AN UGLY MOOD

ESSEN, Jan. 11.—French cavalry, tank and machine gun detachments occupied the center of the city of Essen at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Trains and trams were halted, and communications temporarily closed.

Referring to withdrawal of American troops, Poincare said it would be inexact to interpret this as a slur. It was only a coincidence that it happened now, he suggested.

Wooden Mail Box Can Stay Until It Crumbles

Hang up the old wooden mail box and let it stay.

As long as it holds itself together letters will be deposited in it, but when it falls apart, don't blame the mailman if your letter is whisked away by the elements.

Yesterday it was reported that the wooden mail box was doomed everywhere. The postal regulations say that the box made of wood or material other than metal may be used in the city. On the rural routes, however, metal boxes are required.

Legislative Side Lights

BY HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
News Staff Correspondent at The 38th Legislature

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 11.—A member of the old school was sworn in as a senator from the fifth district of Texas when the upper house organized; a democrat who was born a Georgian 73 years ago, came to Texas at the age of 8, has practiced law for 23 years, served as district judge for many years, and is looked upon as one of the leading members of the bar of Texas.

His sister is the wife of the venerable Judge W. P. McLean of Fort Worth, and Judge McLean is the survivor of that distinguished body of Texans who drafted the constitution which has been in existence 47 years.

Turner for New Constitution
He is for a new constitution. He says the old one is the worst of its kind. He will vote for the calling of a convention to draft a constitution but he is doubtful as to whether the proposition will win the approval of a majority of the senate.

He knew the old Texas, as he helped to create the new Texas. He was one of the pioneer champions of prohibition and an intense advocate of the outlawing of the liquor traffic.

Speaking of the upper house, the personnel of that body is marked, "there is nothing barbaric or old-fashioned about its membership. They are thoroughly representative and thoroughly independent. There were several sufficient incidents connected with the organization of the senate."

On Hootch
Another incident worth more than passing notice was the election of W. T. Hootch as secretary of the senate. Mr. Hootch received 18 votes, a 12 cast for the unsuccessful opponent.

Mr. Hootch has served as secretary 10 years, although he resigned the 25th session. This will make the sixth time that he has been elected, or a total of 12 years. He is a Missourian by birth, but has been in Texas a long time. Ever active as a prohibitionist, he led the fight for "dubious" in the July primary.

He supported Ferguson in the run-off, gave high praise to Paddy in the losing days of the memorable campaign.

Mr. Josephine Collins was elected to an important minor position. She played an important part in the campaign of last year, and her election will not be her last.

Mr. Collins is one of the most pronounced prohibition leaders of Texas, and has been connected with temperance newspapers as a writer of force.

James J. Kinney comes from Dallas. He was elected first assistant sergeant at arms for the 12 years.

Mr. Kinney was his previous position in the senate working organization. Mr. Kinney passed on but this did not rob Kinney of his position.

'SHOES' BOOZE

Nail Pegger's Card Plays Him Into Law's Hands

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 11.—"Joe," the shoe-man, has what you want.

A card bearing this inscription fell into the hands of police. They decided to find out and telephoned the number on the card, ordering two gallons of "shoes."

Bed in Coal Bin Ends Easy Life of Wise Serpent

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Jan. 11.—A wise old snake that played house rat for two years came to a bad end.

He might have gotten away with it indefinitely had he not curled up and gone to sleep for the winter in Mrs. Annie Ritter's coal bin.

For two years Mrs. Ritter had missed foodstuffs from her kitchen and believed rats were responsible, although she had never been able to catch them. She is now convinced clever thieving game all that time.

Menonites on Move Through Texas Again

ETERNAL FLAME

Extreme care was given to the elaborate production of Norma Talmadge's "Eternal Flame," now showing to large audiences at the Peoples theater.

The story from Honore Balzac, "La Duchesse de Langeais," is laid in France, following Napoleon's defeat at Waterloo, when the second restoration swept Louis XVIII and his court back into a madder frivolity than it had even known.

A ball in the magnificent palace of Versailles, one of the most sensational scenes ever registered by a motion picture camera, is seen, as the Duchess de Langeais (Miss Talmadge) is given the opportunity to wear stunning gowns and her portrayal of the reigning beauty of the French court, with its scandals and romances, is a splendid piece of work.

Conway Tearle makes an ideal choice for the role of General de Montreuil, the faithful lover, who finally wins the cynical coquette. Briefly you catch an entrancing story of a beautiful young woman, of sterling character, married to a severe and domineering Frenchman, an officer in the army.

LOVE THE LAUGH-GETTER

"Grandma's Boy," five reels of folly with Harold Lloyd, is certainly breaking the laugh record for Port Arthur. It seems as contagious as an epidemic of measles.

This scintillating picture is showing at the Pearce theater, where it is now having a indefinite run. Laughter galore greeted the opening performance and there has not been a quiet performance since.

When there are no laughs there are chuckles, when there is neither there is a deliciously silent scene where the silent were surely grinning through it all.

Farcical, indeed, are most of the exploits, and often absurd to the last degree, yet always within the range of possibility. Everything happens to Lloyd, but never does he give the impression of forcing the situations and the most ridiculous dilemmas in which he finds himself appear altogether natural.

Harold Lloyd never before so entertaining.

WIDOWS FIGHT OVER WIDOWER

Aged Vamps Sought Favor of Man, 70

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Police took a hand Saturday night in a general fight that started at the meeting of the Widows and Widowers League of America.

The battle started on the street after the meeting when Mrs. Abel Sullivan and Mrs. Alice Cushman accused each other of "vamping" Alvin Jones, 70 years old, and a member of the club by right of the death of his wife.

Mrs. Sullivan warned Mrs. Cushman to leave Mr. Jones alone, because, she declared, she was engaged to him. Mrs. Cushman also claimed she was engaged to Mr. Jones. Then they clinched.

Mr. Jones, object of the two-sided affection, sought to interfere, whereupon both the women turned upon him. Then the fighting became general.

John Honnert, a young man, and not a member of the club, happened along and got into the battle. He carried a revolver and shot in the air. The pistol shot brought quiet, but it also brought the police.

The Huttons took refuge in a convenient police station, asking for protection. Sergeant Julian Warnock obligingly arrested them and "booked" them in separate cells. The friends stood outside. An hour later the friends left.

"Thanks," murmured the couple as they were released.

A Quarter Century Of Service
"If a man write a better book or preach a better sermon or build a better mouse-trap, he will live in the depths of the forest. The world will beat a path to his door."
25 years ago a small druggist—in a small town—discovered a new way—an "external" way—to treat colds. So Vicks was born.
And for a quarter of a century, in ever increasing numbers, the world has beaten a path to its door.
Until today more than 17 million jars go out yearly to serve the people of this land.

Avoid Influenza—Grip—Pneumonia
Apply Vicks to help avoid infection. Use Vicks at the first sign of an oncoming cold.
Attack a Cold Immediately
When you feel a cold coming on, go right home. Take a laxative. Make some hot lemonade, then take a hot bath—as hot as you can stand. Stay in the tub 30 minutes, slipping slowly several glasses of the lemonade. If your head is stopped up, melt Vicks in a spoon or tin cup and inhale the vapors arising; also insert Vicks freely up the nostrils.
After your hot bath, get into bed, with a hot water bottle at your feet, and pile on blankets. After an hour's sweat, dry thoroughly with a rough towel, apply Vicks over throat and chest, rub in well until the skin is red, and then spread on thickly and cover with one or two thicknesses of hot flannel cloth. Get into bed again between dry sheets. Leave the bed-dressing loose about the neck, like a funnel, so that the rising vapors may be freely inhaled. It is an obstinate cold, indeed, that will resist such treatment. If it does, call a physician.
Avoid Sneezers and Coughers
It is best to keep away from the sneezers and coughers in the street cars and public places, or if you must meet them, insert some Vicks in the nostrils before you start out. On returning home, melt a little Vicks in a tin cup or a spoon and inhale the vapors.
Opposed to Bacteria
The ingredients of Vicks are not only antiseptic, but rubefacient—that is, they summon the blood to the tissues where applied and this free blood circulation is nature's best method of repelling germ infection. Also Vicks spreads a protective film over the membrane and furthermore is opposed to the growth of bacteria. In short, we believe you have a much better chance to avoid infection by these numerous germs if you have Vicks in your nose.
Adopt the DIRECT treatment for all cold troubles
ABSORBED, like a liniment, and, at the same time, INHALED, as a vapor, Vicks reaches immediately the congested, inflamed air passages.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS JACKIE IN DREAMLAND

By Olive Roberts Burton

At that minute he heard a pleasant voice speaking. "How do you do, Mr. Woodchuck?" it said.
Nancy and Nick and Dusty Coat, the fairy sandman, made another trip around to all the sleeping creatures, tucked away so snugly and warm in their beds.
Ever so quietly they shook more magic powder all around the sleepers and then tiptoed softly out.
Suddenly a queer thing happened. A little trap-door right underneath Wally Woodchuck Groundhog's mattress flew open with a snap and Wally was tumbled pell-mell down a long tube like a coal chute. He thought the world had come to an end and that he was sliding through a crack right toward China.
"My goodness," he cried, "Here I thought I was settled for a nice long winter's sleep and this is what happens!"
Wally hadn't time to say another word, for he landed on his head and he rolled over two or three times and stopped. In spite of all his tumbling and bumping and rollings, he wasn't hurt a speck. In fact it felt rather comfortable and he was sorry when he found himself at standstill.
At that minute he heard a pleasant voice speaking. "How do you do, Mr. Woodchuck?" it said. "Or do you prefer to be called 'Groundhog'? I am Farmer Hoe Mow, at your service. Dusty Coat the Dwarf, and his helpers, Nancy and Nick, sent me word to expect you by the underground tunnel, so I've been waiting. You must be hungry after your long trip."

Wally had got to his feet by this time with much grunting and growling, for he was still fat in spite of his lack of provisions.
"Hungry?" cried Wally, rolling his eyes. "Say, mister, that's my middle name. But it wasn't the trip. No, sir! Food's been scarcer than frolic feathers for more'n a month. Dusty Coat put me to sleep with some magic powder and I kinda wish I'd stayed that way."
"Oh, tut," said Farmer Hoe Mow. "I was just about to tell you. The wheat field is on your right, the corn field on your left, the orchard in front is at your service, and behind you is the garden. We hope to make you comfortable in Dreamland."

Speaking of Pies and Pie Crust

By BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH

Of Columbia University
America is the pie-eating country of the world. By pie I mean two pieces of crust, baked round, with a filling of fruit or custard mixture between them.
The only one-crust pies are those filled with squash, custard, pumpkin or lemon, and occasionally stewed fruit, with strips of paste across the top—"cross-barred," as it is called sometimes.
Cooks differ as to the best raw material for shortening pie crust.
Flaky and Puffy
Lard and butter make for an excellent and delicious-tasting crust. Oils may be used but they do not result in flaky or puffy pastry.
Some cooks keep every ingredient very cold some make delicious paste with boiling water.
There are three kinds of paste which the housekeeper may make—plain, puff and choux.
Plain paste is used for pies and simple tarts; puff for patties and small pastries; choux paste is better known in the form of cream puffs or eclairs.
Plain and choux paste are made easily; puff is more difficult.
The English favor the open pie, called a tart, and it is advisable to serve this kind of pie in the family. It is an excellent way to use canned and preserved fruits.
Invert the Plate
The pie plate is inverted and covered with the plain paste, pricked

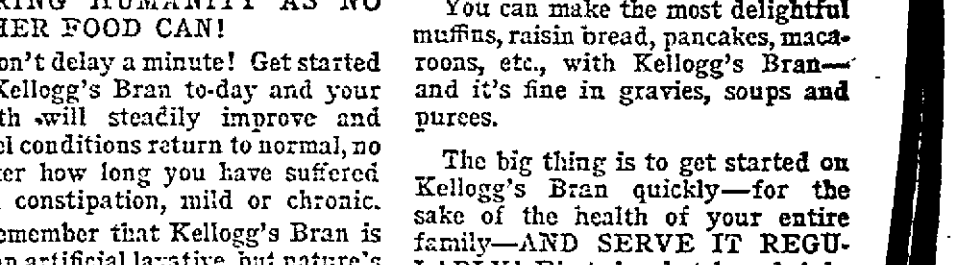

BORROWED FROM ORIENT
Some of the most elaborate pastries, are of Paisley silk in dull, rich shades, combined with bandings of Persian blue velvet.
FLATTERING COLLARS
Upstanding ruffs of tulle or tulle are seen on many of the newest frocks. This softens the line about the back of the neck and is more flattering than the severe line.
ALL IN CREPE
Nightgowns and combination suits of colored crepe de chine are effectively trimmed with bands of white crepe or with small geometrical figures, applied or hemstitched on in a border pattern.

Don't delay a minute! Get started on Kellogg's Bran to-day and your health will steadily improve and bowel conditions return to normal, no matter how long you have suffered with constipation, mild or chronic.
Remember that Kellogg's Bran is not an artificial laxative, but nature's own bulk food that acts as sweeper, cleanser and purifier. Its work for health is wonderful! Besides, bran contains the most valuable mineral salts and other life-sustaining elements—it is a blood maker and bone and tissue-builder!
Kellogg's Bran, being cooked and crumbled, is delicious eaten as a cereal, or sprinkled on hot or cold cereals. Another happy way to serve Kellogg's Bran is to cook it with your favorite hot cereal. In preparation, add two table-spoonfuls of bran for each person, cooking the cereal as usual.
You can make the most delightful muffins, raisin bread, pancakes, macaroons, etc., with Kellogg's Bran—and it's fine in gravies, soups and purees.
The big thing is to get started on Kellogg's Bran quickly—for the sake of the health of your entire family—AND SERVE IT REGULARLY! First-class hotels and clubs serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. Ask for it at your restaurant!

Houston's plan to perfect a new athletic association may pan out like West Texas' attempted secession.

WANT GARDNER TO TAKE HELM OF LOCAL CLUB

Port Arthur Men Planning Athletic Association

"That 'Pinky' Gardner, clever wrestling exponent of Schenectady, N. Y., may come here as the head of a proposed athletic association, and that the business men of this city may organize to perfect such an association was the intimation given out this morning by J. D. Bryan, manager of the Bryan Tailoring company."

"Gardner wants to come back to Port Arthur to wrestle some more," according to Mr. Bryan, "and incidentally, he also is interested in an athletic association which was proposed to him while he was here recently."

"Will Port, match-maker and wrestling promoter of Beaumont, said last night that Gardner had expressed himself as being very much interested in the proposed athletic association, and that if the project were given much impetus, 'Pinky' would be easy to obtain for a director, 'because he likes Port Arthur.'"

Gardner is at present athletic instructor in a small college in Schenectady, N. Y., his home town, where he has a class of some 75 or 100 students training all the year round. If he should come here, it has been intimated, he would interest not only the young men, but the "tired business men" in training to keep physically fit.

"Should Gardner come here to head the association," Mr. Bryan said this morning, "the whole spirit of cooperation of the citizenship otherwise such an undertaking would be a failure."

Gardner is anxious to return here for a wrestling match at an early time, and indicated the evening following his match with Joe Shinkus in the Elks theater that he would probably be back in this section of the country by the end of at least two months. He is at present in Little Rock, Ark., where he will wrestle soon, and he also has a match in Schenectady on the 19th.

Gardner has a high record as an athlete, and has been termed by numerous sport fans and athletic followers as "the most perfect specimen of man" in the country at the present time, even shadowing the great Eugene Sandow, whose physical training methods are known far and wide.

It is reported from all sections of the country to be one of the "cleanest athletes in the wrestling game," and also has an excellent record as an athletic director. His advent into this city at the head of an athletic association would undoubtedly attract a clean body of young men and older men to the gymnasium for physical training they have not been indulging in during the past.

The athletic association as formulated in the minds of several interested business men here would take the form of a place for physical training, where wrestling and self defense would not only be taught, but where clubs of business men and boys could take any kind of exercise they chose.

ZIVIC COMES BACK AFTER OPERATION

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—"Just as good as ever," says Jack Zivic, as he proudly displays a knife-wound arm and shoulder to his friends.

Zivic is the youngster who, several months ago, faced the end of his hoped-for ring career, on account of the right arm which refused to stay in the shoulder socket.

He had fought his way through the amateur ranks until he was crowned featherweight champion at the last Olympic games.

Turning pro, he was well along on his hard climb toward his ambition of a bout for the lightweight title, when he dislocated his right shoulder in a match at Annapolis. Fighting again before the injury was entirely healed, he again threw it out of place.

His Gameness Rewarded
Apparently Jack was done. Doctors gave him no encouragement until finally Doctor Froelich suggested an operation, never before tried, might restore the arm to its old usefulness.

Zivic was game. He passed long, painful weeks in a hospital, while the arm slowly healed. Followed dreary weeks of restoring wasted muscles.

Then more weeks of hard work in a gymnasium to regain the speed, the nimble of judgment, the timing of the blows, the physical perfection that a boxer must have when he faces an opponent in the ring.

Then came the acid test. Would the arm stand the strain of battle? Jack elected to make his tryout before his home folks. He was matched with Dick De Sanders at Pittsburgh.

Stood the Acid Test
For five rounds he fought with Jack. He displayed all the speed that he showed before his operation, and the shower of lefts and rights, hooks and jabs that he sent home on the face of the son of sunny Italy, caused that worried fighter to appeal to the referee to stop it.

Jack was happy. His arm had stood the test.

"She's just as good as ever," and Zivic is once more started on the way to his long-forgotten goal, the winning of the lightweight title.

AWAITING CONG OF BIG BOUT IN GARDEN TONIGHT

Place Much on Outcome of Johnson-Brennan Scrap

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—New York and New Yorkers are making more than an ordinary scrap out of the meeting here Friday night between Floyd Johnson, the highly advertised heavyweight from the Pacific coast and Bill Brennan, whose chief claim to fame is staying longer with Dempsey than any other human.

Madison Square Garden is sold out already and the allies of fistiana are talking of nothing else. New Yorkers, always glib, have been steamed up to believe that it amounts to something.

Johnson, if he should happen to beat Brennan, will be boosted as the logical opponent for a bout with Dempsey next summer. The old line can almost be heard now to "it took Dempsey twelve rounds to do it, and Johnson did it in—he's young, can hit and—"

Johnson may be a good fighter and he may be a potential champion, but a boxer who has been hurled into the top rank by a printing press after nine fights with second and third rates will have a lot more than best Brennan to have a chance with Dempsey.

Olds of 7 to 5 are being laid that Brennan wins because of his greater experience and his known ability to take a tremendous wallop on the jaw.

Kamm Is Pulling For Collins to Remain With Sox
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 11.—While Kamm is one ballplayer who hopes the deal that New York is trying to make for Eddie Collins fails to go through.

While Kamm, he it known, is the infielder for whom the Chicago White Sox paid San Francisco the sum of $100,000.

Kamm is really a great ballplayer. He has a fine pair of hands, and during the last two years has come fast as a hitter. No player ever went to the majors with greater promise.

Here is Kamm's reason for hoping Collins remains with the White Sox: "Coast League players tell me that Collins is a great fellow with the pennies. They say that he goes out of his way to help them. I am positive I will make good for Chicago, but feel that Collins would greatly help me on the road to success. I hate to be selfish, but I will be mighty well pleased if New York fails to land him."

SHINKUS MATCHED FOR RETURN BOUT

A wrestling bout which will probably attract the largest crowd of the season to the Elks theater, where the engagement will ensue, has been scheduled between Joe Shinkus of Beaumont and John Pauls of Toledo, Ohio, for January 16.

Pauls, a 168-pounder, will be one of the toughest matches Shinkus, 164-pounder, will have through this season, it is predicted, since the Toledo wrestler has one of the best records in the game for his class.

Match-maker Will Fort, who signed the two boys for the Port Arthur bout, the second of the new season, is also negotiating for an opponent to meet Charlie Hall, Beaumont boy, here on the same occasion. In the event this is carried out, Port Arthur fans will have the pleasure of witnessing a double bill which will be well worth while. Prices of $1 and $1.50 will prevail for the bout, it is announced.

2 Basketball Tilts Scheduled for This City Saturday Night

While the "Good Gulf" five is clashing with the "Sea Gulls" of Galveston in Franklin gym Saturday night, the Port Arthur College club will be mixing in a warm session with the Orange Owls in another part of the school building.

This was the announcement made today by the coaching staff of the college, where it was declared all arrangements preparatory to the clash had been completed.

The College squad is a fast crew, composed of the same players who were runners-up in the recent Sunday School league games here, the first half of which has ended.

The Orange five is reported to be coming here "with blood in their eyes" intent upon victory, this indicating that the game will be warmly contested.

The two games promise considerable entertainment for Port Arthur basketball fans for the week-end, inasmuch as the Gulf clash with the Sea Gulls will probably settle the supremacy for amateur squads of that class in this section.

The Gulfers did not practice last night, but will go on the court this evening for a stiff workout, the game being indulged in Friday night prior to the contest, at which time Coach "Freddy" Forbes will probably select his defense machine for the Galveston player.

BULLSEYES of BASEBALL

There is no more difficult job in baseball than acting as relief pitcher in some tense situation.

To Ed Walsh, then a pitcher with the Chicago White Sox, goes the honor of staying the greatest bit of relief pitching I have ever seen.

It was in the spring of 1912, if my memory serves me correctly. The White Sox were playing the Browns at St. Louis. I was the umpire.

The game had been close all the way. In the ninth the Browns filled the bases with no one out.

Walsh, who had done very little pitching up to that time because of trouble with his arm, was rushed to the rescue.

All Walsh did was retire the side on ten pitched balls. Every ball he threw was a deceptive spitter. The three batters who faced him swung wildly at seven of the pitches and missed, two strikes I called, and the other pitcher I ruled a ball.

It was the greatest bit of pinch pitching I have ever seen. It would be hard to figure a tougher situation, also difficult to imagine a pitcher erasing it completely on ten pitched balls, without permitting so much as even a foul.

Recently I was talking that game over with Walsh. He told me that it was the last real pitching he ever did.

That supreme effort seemed to snap what was left of his once great arm. Not only was it the best bit of pinch pitching that I ever saw, but it also marked the end of a great pitcher's career.

YOUNG INDIANS HUNT IN PRIMITIVE METHOD
MIAMI, Okla., Jan. 11.—Boys of the Seneca Indian school of Wyandotte, near here, demonstrated an art of their forefathers in their annual rabbit hunt recently.

While teachers and other employees of the institution armed with rifles and shotguns went in search of cottontails, the Indian boys successfully employed the primitive method of bringing the animals down with stones.

Hatter Goodmoney, 18 year old Cherokee, with a good sized rock killed a rabbit while his companion Cap Cottoner, agency farmer, was drawing a head with a rifle.

BASKETBALL QUIZZ

When the centers are jumping for the ball from the circle, may one of the players after the whistle has been blown, jump out of the circle and try to outguess his opponent by being in a position to receive the ball?

A player jumping from center has a perfect right to do so, provided he does not leave the circle until after the ball has been tapped.

POSITION
What must be the position of other players, when two players jump from center or elsewhere on a ball tossed by the referee?

There is no definite position for the other players on a tossed ball. They have a perfect right to assume any position that does not in any way interfere with the jumpers.

FACING BASKET
When players jump from center or elsewhere, is it necessary that they face their own baskets when so jumping?

No particular facing is required, but as a rule the players have their eyes on their own basket, so as to be in the best possible position to tap the ball to their advantage.

BEAUMONT MAY JOIN BODY OF NEW ATHLETES

Organization of New School Association Likely

Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, Jan. 11.—Beaumont may become a member of a new high school athletic association, according to the announcement of the new sport body reaching Coach C. M. Kelly's hands from Houston, Texas, where the organization is under way.

The new body, which, according to Principal F. M. Black of Central High, Houston, would be called "The Texas High School Athletic conference," composed of only the larger city high schools in the state. It is believed to be an outgrowth of a common opinion over the state that the Interstate League is a failure.

A first draft of the constitution has been drawn and submitted to the following schools, which may be the nucleus around which the conference is formed: Bryan Street high of Dallas, Oakliff high of Dallas, Forest Avenue high of Dallas, Port Worth high of Port Worth, Central high of Port Worth, Arlington Heights high of Port Worth, Waco high, Austin high, Brackenridge high of San Antonio, Main Avenue high of San Antonio, Central high of Houston, Heights high of Houston, Beaumont high and Galveston high schools.

According to the tentative constitution, all sports will be entered into by the conference. Circuits for football, basketball, track and baseball will be included.

Black plans to divide the state into three sections. Section one shall include Dallas and Fort Worth; section two, Waco, Austin and San Antonio; and section three, Houston, Galveston and Beaumont.

All district championships shall be determined on a percentage basis and the inter-district and state titles by series of games.

The conference will provide trophies for winning teams in each sport. Few high schools have been satisfied with the running of the Interstate League for the past several years and the forming of a suitable conference which will only include teams from the larger cities will be welcomed not only by the playing teams, but by the sport followers of the entire state.

It has been noticed that games in any line of sport between teams from large and small towns fail to draw crowds, and also fail to give the looked-for sport thrill.

It is not so much because the smaller cities cannot produce first class teams, but because they seldom have produced such winning aggregations. A wider and more compelling sort of enthusiasm can be stimulated by such a conference.

The Laughter of Allah

BEGIN HERE TODAY

M. JONQUELLE, greatest of French detectives, tells this story of the love affair of a great Englishman - the only romantic episode in the life of the world-famous figure who met a tragic death in the North Sea after a brilliant career in Egypt.

Riding through the streets of Cairo, he was suddenly thrown from his horse. A charming white girl helped him into her motor car and brought him to her home. The Englishman, during the ride to the house, observed signs of unrest among the natives but he said nothing. When they entered the girl's home they found that all the native servants had deserted. The girl rang the bell in the drawing room but no familiar native face answered.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III.

Passing a center-table, as by inadvertence, she turned down a photograph frame.

The simple, unconscious act caught the man's attention, and when he was alone he took the thing up and turned it over. It was an old, battered, silver rim, enclosing a picture of himself cut out of an illustrated paper. The picture was yellow with age and marked around in faded ink. It showed a smart young officer, above a legend of "Brilliant Achievement."

He remembered distinctly the very day that a marked copy of this paper had come to him, sent out by an adoring aunt.

The brilliant achievement had been the rather clever handling of some guns in a hill fight. It was a tiny war and the correspondent was making all he could of every incident.

He held the thing a moment in his hands, trying to remember how many years ago that had been. It seemed a lifetime, and he put it back gently on the table, fastidiously.

Immediately the girl came in with a tray. She could not find a servant in the house but she was not disturbed. She was flushed and smiling, her velvety brown eyes danced and the corners of her mouth made little dimples.

In the man's humming head the thought came that in eastern countries this slipping away of the servant meant something serious. Things like it had preceded the mutiny.

But his mind was in another quarter. Did she know him? His brown hair was shot with gray now; there was hardly any brown left in it. His jaw would look lean and bony the planes of his face would be flattened.

She could hardly wait to show him what she had brought in with the tray. She slipped the tray onto the table and put the thing into his hands.

It was a letter written to the hero - sheet from an old blue-ruled copy book, the words painfully printed, the letters uneven, "r" and "w" always a head taller than the rest.

"I called them 'great' and 'doubtless,'" she said, "they were bound to make them the others."

Then she gave him a little squeeze.

"Isn't the postscript heavenly?"

He thought the fingers were on his heart. He could hardly read the dim printed line.

"And if you come over and look the 'Yankers,' I will love you more better."

He felt himself going weak all over. This was the only love letter that any woman had ever written him. He had got innumerable letters pretending to be, but this was the only one.

And here it was an April flower reaching him in winter. There was youth, dimpled and red-mouthed, pulling at him, a cool finger crooked around his heart.

He felt that he was capable of committing any folly. But he said only:

"It is charming."

He wished to ask for the letter, that he might keep it always, but he did not know how to put it. He was trying to think of some way, when suddenly, in the direction of the city, a gun boomed. He had been holding the letter, turning it in his fingers, trying to think how to ask for it, and so did not see the girl go over to the window. Now she gave a little smothered cry. He put the bit of paper down and crossed at once to her.

Immediately he saw what had alarmed her. When they had entered from the car, they had left the gate unlocked and now figures were slipping in.

An Arab in a white burnoose was pushing the gate gently open. He was stooping over, and carried the dagger bayonet of a German rifle in his lean, brown hand. Behind him was a black face, and a blue caftan after that.

It is the strength of England in the east to act first and masterfully. The man knew what this further entering meant, what the boom of the gun meant, and he hesitated no fraction of a moment.

"Keep inside," he said, and he went out of the room and down the steps.

In the hall he looked about an instant for a weapon. There was none, but on a rack by the door with crops and walking sticks, there was a heavy dog whip with a long plaited lash. He caught it as he passed.

He crossed the garden in great strides. The creatures in the gate hesitated and crowded together, only the Arab advanced, the dagger bayonet concealed under his burnoose. But the courage and the contempt of the Englishman mastered him, as the front and menace of the advancing keeper masters a snarling beast.

He struck out with his weapon, but the heavy whip lashed him, cutting his face, his neck, his shoulders, and like a dog, he was driven back. And a moment later the whole evil featured troop went crowding through the gate like jackals.

He shot the bolts and made the gate fast. Then he felt a hand slipped through his arm, and a girl was beside him. Her face was full of color. There was something soft on her lips in the pose of the head, the chin thrust out, and the teeth set on the velvet underlip.

"It was fine! They were afraid!" she said.

And again, all over, the man felt the heat of her hands. Her hair flew in the soft light, seemed rounded off. Her slender face gleamed like a flower. And he wanted to take her, his arms and clutch her to his mouth. He felt, in a sort of panic, that in a moment, his head would go.

"They were only a pack of dogs," he said. Words seemed to steady him. Then, far out in the city, he heard the crack of a machine gun, and he got himself in hand.

"We must see what this thing means," he said. "How does one get up?" and he indicated the house to her with a gesture.

She pointed out the way, her hand on his arm, now with a firm hold now sliding along the sleeve. And on the stair, step by step as the man felt this soft, caressing hand, his heart throbbed.

On the housetop the soldier under stood. Islam had risen and her innumerable hordes, swarming like red rain, held the city. The whole desert had entered under pretense of honor to the sacred carpet.

The procession had been cunningly delayed, and the English regiment, separated by the crowds of people were being cut to pieces. Suddenly, indeed, in the air were the merrymen of the Arab knifes.

The city was a pot of sound. The man saw instantly that the regiment were lost. He looked out southward, toward the citadel, and under his eye there leaped up a long crimson blur, and above the innumerable scents of Cairo he caught the smell of fire. Moreover, the native regiments had swept over the town; they were forming here and there under the great crescent in perfect order.

The man stood motionless, every muscle tense, his face like iron. The fingers of England were slipping off Egypt.

Then a cool firm hand entered his own. He looked down and, all at once, as by some sorcery, the white of his eyes was gone; there became a thing moral. He saw only the man who stood beside him, straight, slim, like and beautiful as a Nubian, his dark hair banded around her face. He noted every detail of her - her long lashes, her exquisite mouth. And the most mysterious, the most irresistible impulse in the world seized him. He turned swiftly, caught her up in his arms, and kissed her.

As their lips met, the girl's arms went out around him. Her body seemed to melt into his, to become a part of him, of every nerve, of every blood drop, of every fragment of his flesh and her voice broken with kisses, seemed to murmur in his heart.

"Oh, my love! I shall be with you always!"

"You came an ugly cropper, Sir Henry," said the big surgeon, "but unconscious - until we got the bone up."

The man looked about him. He was in the English hospital. An orderly was arranging some articles on a table. The surgeon was smiling; a newspaper, which he had just put down, lay across a chair. The picture of a woman in it caught the man's eye. It was a picture of a woman whom he had met and loved while the plate of broken bone pressed on his brain. He read the notice underneath. She had died sitting in the window of the English hotel at sunset.

And all at once he realized that from that hour, from the moment the horse fell in the wet street, over the incident and detail - the girl, the man in the violence, the splendid love idyl of his life - had been figments of the fancy!

And, vaguely, as from a distance, he heard the big surgeon going on:

"Beautiful operation, Sir Henry. We shall have you in the saddle at Khartoum in a fortnight."

And the thrilling adventures of M. Jonquelle, "The Laughter of Allah," will begin in our next issue.

ONE KILLED AS BOYS

SHUNT STREET CARS

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Jan. 11.

Real street cars made ideal toys for three lads playing in the yards of the Tri-City Railway company. They shunted the cars back and forth, played motorman and conductor to their heart's content until the tragedy came.

Lynn Humphreys, one of the three, was killed when his head was crushed between two of the cars.

"We thought the car would go ahead," said one of the frightened lads. But instead it was in reverse gear and Lynn couldn't get away quick enough.

It was the second violent death in the family in ten days. Lynn's older brother was killed by an automobile.

ICE CREAM KILLS TWO

AT CHILDREN'S PARTY.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 - Two children died in an epidemic of typhoid at Queens village. Bad ice cream caused the typhoid, officials believe, and the board of health has closed a store that provided the ice cream for a school party reception. Of 21 cases in Queens village, 18 are children who were at that party. Two more who have the disease ate ice cream from the store on the day of the party, but were not at the party.
